

A close-up photograph of a single, vibrant red rose in full bloom. The petals are tightly packed and show a rich, warm red color with some lighter, almost orange, highlights in the center. The rose is positioned on the left side of the frame, with its stem and several green leaves extending towards the right. The leaves are dark green and have serrated edges. The background is a deep, dark green, creating a strong contrast with the bright red of the rose. Overlaid on the upper half of the image is a block of white text in a serif font, which reads: "Exodus 39:10 And they set in it four rows of stones: the first row was a sardius, a topaz, and a carbuncle: this was the first row." The text is arranged in five lines, with the first line being the longest and the last line being the shortest.

Exodus 39:10 And they set in it four rows of stones: the first row was a sardius, a topaz, and a carbuncle:
this was the first row.